Warsaw, Oct. 29th, 1847.

Friend Jim: I can't imagine what you knew that was the reason of my not writing to you. Well, to dispel any doubt on the subject I'll let her out Ever since I received a letter from you I have been thinking that the next week I should be at home, until now, when the chances are doubtful whether I get a furlough before the 1st of Jan. Boss Dill has given up the publishing business and gone to work as a jour in Buffalo. A good 'eat' offered itself here, and I'm here. I have charge of the office, and get along, all the trouble is, the boss won't let me go home. I think I am in the best place yet I have had better health along back, than usual, and if that "goes to hell" & out till my time is up I will stop here. I want to hear from you very much and as your independence for not writing to you before; tell my folks that I am in Warsaw

On this sheet you will find an Enigma for the "Whig" which if you will, ^{if you please} hand it to the Ed. and if he can translate it he is at liberty to insert in the paper on in the stove of that heart in my writing is here for 'em to read pick it out for 'em: tell 'em to send it as they

I'm by gall! no material disagree long while were scarce, I want an answer as soon as your engagements will permit; let's know all the nostr(es) that have been tried & see. No time or I would apologise for appearances,

Yours vera satiating

Charles Aleksey

P.S. I made up the "form" last night, — look 'proof' and "turned" the paper and then wrote this 'ere all under dark. 'Tis by gall!
